What Shall I Wear?

Is a question that is answered by Rosenberg Brothers of Troy with the later apparel from the New York Markets . . . From Paris, France, to New York, to Troy, Alabama, and to you. . The Styles this Fall are so different that you positively cannot even attempt to wear a last year's garment. . .

The Empress Eugenie Fashion of the 1860's has made an instant appeal to the American Women, whether in the large city or the small town, you will fall for these new styles. . Rosenberg's Buyers have spent weeks in the East studying and selecting only the best and most approved of the new styles in Coats, Dresses, Shoes, Hats and also the Accessories, such as Gloves, Hosiery, Purses and Jewelry. . . . .

These new goods are all here and on display for your choice and selection. Every one who has seen the new things has been enthusiastic about them. We want every reader of this paper to accept this as a special invitation to come to Troy and visit ROSENBERG'S. . See the new things, get posted on the new styles, try on the new Wraps and Frocks and enjoy picking the things that you want from a greater selection than has ever been our pleasure to show you. . .

Piece goods too are here for their share of the applause and comment, Soft Woolens, Smart Silks, and of course the pretty new Fall Cottons and Rayons have never been equalled in both weave and patterns. .

A word also is necessary about prices, those who can look back state that they can never remember when prices were as low as they are now . . Of course some things are still too high, but you will be amazed at the low prices that you will find here at ROSENBERG'S on the new Fall and Winter Merchandise . . Our advice is to buy all you will need for the bottom of the price level has been reached in our estimation. . . .

Men, Young Men and Boys are beginning to make this store their headquarters when they come to Troy, and why not? We pay just as much attention to the Men Folks' Clothes question as we do to the other part of the family. . . You will find only the best Nationally known brands here . . Hart Schaffner and Marx, Florsheim, Manhattan, Friendly Five, Interwoven and other standard makes. .

Teachers who are going off to different towns to teach, Students who are going off to School or Colleve, whether men or women, will welcome this opportunity to shop at ROSENBERG'S where they can feel assured that what they buy is not only correct, but also priced at the minimum price consistent with the quality. . .

How about setting a date within the next week for a personal trip to our store? We will welcome the opportunity to show you the new things . .

LARGEST LIVING THING

The largest living thing on this earth and probably the oldest, is the General Sherman tree in Sequoia National Park, California. By precise observations and calculations a committee of engineers determined that this tree is the biggest of the giant redwoods, while the General Grant tree is second in size.

The General Sherman tree has a volume of slightly more than 600,000 board ft. of lumber; its height is 272 feet, and its circumference at the ground is 88 feet.

It is estimated that these largest trees are 5,000 or more years old.

"A few years ago, I was in a very nervous condition," writes Mrs. P. L. Reynolds, 327 W. Main St., Spartanburg, S. C. "I was terribly depressed. I felt every day just like something awful was going to happen. I did not sleep well at night. I had awful crying spells and did not know what in the world I was crying about. My mother told me to try Cardui. After my first bottle, I was better. I took several bottles and it did me a world of good. I quit having the nervous, blue feeling, and was soon all right. COFFEE CO. FARMERS ENDORSE LONG PLAN 100 PER CENT

Several hundred Coffee County farmers and business men assembled at the circuit court room in Elba Saturday morning to discuss the cotton situation. County Agent W. M. Ray acted as chairman of the meeting and Dr. W. C. Braswell served as secretary.

Chairman Ray opened the meeting by stating the object of the gathering. Among other things, he stated that the farmers of Coffee County, as well as in other sections of the cotton belt, are in a bad fix and that something must be done to try to better conditions. He said that after studying the Long plan to declare a holiday for next year's cotton crop, up one side and down the other, he was convinced that it is the only plan that has been introduced that offers the cotton farmer any hope of immediate relief and that he heartily endorses it. He then called on Dr. Braswell for a talk on the situation.

Dr. Braswell responded with an eloquent appeal in favor of the Long plan. He said that prominent lawyers had assured him that it is the only plan that has been suggested that can possibly offer the cotton farmer any relief for this year's crop, as all of the others are unconstitutional and would require six months or more before they could be made legal in the form of constitutional amendments. He said that all of the bankers of Coffee County have endorsed the Long plan and that a large majority of the business men of the county are in favor of it. He also said that the farmers throughout Alabama are practically unanimously in favor of it and that great pressure is being brought to bear upon Gov. Miller and members of the State Legislature to meet in extra session and pass a law similar to the one recently passed by the legislature of the State of Louisiana.

Dr. Braswell quoted figures showing that whereas the farmer receives only $8 to $10 per ton for his cotton seed, the oil mill operator realizes about $31 from a ton of seed. He also made an appeal to the farmers to support and cooperate with the Alabama-Georgia-Florida Peanut Association in order to make a better market for the peanut crop. He produced figures showing that the peanut shellers were getting $41 a ton out of peanuts while the farmers were only receiving $40 per ton.

Judge W. M. Brunson, who is also an extensive farmer, was called on and he made a ringing speech endorsing the Long plan. He said that while he did not know just how much it would benefit the cotton farmer, it is the best plan that he has seen and that he couldn't see how it could do the farmer any harm, especially in this section, where peanuts, corn and other crops could so well take the place of the cotton crop. Judge Brunson stated that the farmers are absolutely lost and don't know which way to turn and that some great leader is sorely needed to lead them out of the wilderness.

Judge Brunson warned his hearers that while he believed the Long plan would be beneficial, still they must not depend upon it to solve their financial difficulties, but that every farmer and business man would have to work out his own salvation.

Coffee County's Representative in the State Legislature, Hon. Jack D. Lee, was called on and stated that while he was personally in favor of the Long plan, he wanted to represent the majority of his people in the matter, so a vote was called for, which resulted unanimously in favor of the Long plan. Chairman Ray stated that he had held meetings all over the county during the week and that in every case the vote had been unanimous in favor of the Long plan.

Judge J. A. Carnley was called on and he responded with an eloquent endorsement of the Long plan. He stated that he had traveled through Arkansas, Mississippi, Louisiana, Tennessee and Alabama during the past month and that everywhere he went he found the farmers and business men almost solidly for the Long plan. He showed how the argument that foreign countries would step in and steal our cotton markets away from us during our cotton holiday is all buncombe, as those countries are already raising all the cotton they can, but as it is of a very poor grade, the South has little to fear from that source.

Judge Carnley read a part of the law passed by the Louisiana Legislature, explaining that it is constitutional because it comes under the head of emergency legislation to exterminate the boll weevil, whereas all of the other plans, such as acreage reduction, tax measures, etc., are unconstitutional and their advocates know it, but are using these plans to befuddle the minds of the people in their efforts to kill the Long plan.

County Superintendent Rowe Watson was called on and made a short talk in regard to the school situation in the county. He said that he nor any one else could tell how long the schools would be able to run the coming year. He said that the only thing that could be done would be to start school and trust to luck, hoping that the necessary money would be forthcoming. He urged every school patron to put every child of school age into school the first day and keep them there throughout the term, as he State school money that the county receives is based on attendance and not on enrollment, and that Coffee County is suffering severely in this respect because of poor attendance the past year.

A resolution endorsing the Long plan was unanimously adopted and wired to the State Legislature in session at Austin, Texas.

The meeting was closed with a prayer by Judge Carnley.

Two Men Die In Pistol Duel In Hartford Sept. 9

HARTFORD, Ala., Sept. 9.—Left hands clasped on each other's shoulders, Chief of Police J. C. Roney, 40, and J. H. Radford, 50, a former mayor, today killed each other in a pistol duel while 50 startled citizens looked on.

The duel arising from an argument over street grading was over witnesses said before they were aware of the seriousness of the meeting before Roney's office.

While the shooting today was the direct result of a street sprinkler breaking a concrete sidewalk before Radford's home, officers the past six months due to dry said the two had been at odds for raids on the former mayor's filling station.

Radford and Roney met before the latter's office today, and witnesses said after exchanging a few words, they placed their left hands on each other's shoulder and with their right began firing pistols.

Roney dropped with four bullet wounds in his body. He died within a few minutes. Radford also was wounded four times, and died as he reached the operating room of a Dothan hospital.

Radford is survived by his wife and a daughter, Roney by his wife and four children.

Patrolman T. K. Windham, discussing the grudge between Roney and Radford, tonight said it began six months ago when he and his chief raided a filling station operated by the former mayor.

"We raided him two or three times," Windham said, "and recently the Federal men got him. This was over a period of six months."

Windham said on the first raid he and Chief Roney found four pints and at that time Radford struck at the chief of police.

The trouble today arose over breaking concrete in front of Radford's home. Windham said Roney was driving a fire truck used in sprinkling and in turning around backed into the walk, breaking a portion off of it.

When they met today, Windham said Radford asked, "Who do you think that walk belongs to?" and Roney replied, "The city."

Radford turned to walk away, Windham said, and Roney followed drawing his pistol. As he drew near, Radford struck at him and Roney fired, then hands on each other's shoulder they continued to fire until both fell.

Radford was under two Federal indictments for alleged violation of liquor laws and faced trial at Montgomery soon.

OLD MAIDS' CONVENTION SCORED A BIG HIT FRI. NIGHT

The "Old Maids' Convention" given by the Womans Missionary Society of the Methodist Church at the school auditorium last Friday night was a "howling success." It was well attended and the audience was highly entertained.

Twelve young ladies, dressed in every conceivable costume, portraying the much "persecuted and berated" old maid, acted their parts to perfection and their actions and sayings kept the audience in an uproar of laughter from beginning to end.

Mrs. J. W. Kendrick as president and Miss Madge Page as secretary of the convention, were at their best, while the reports made by the various chairwomen of the committees were all well rendered. All performed their parts so well that to mention any certain ones would be doing an injustice to the others. However, we cannot refrain from saying that Miss Madge Page was a whole show by herself. Her makeup, song and dance were alone worth the price of admission.

Those representing old maids were: Mrs. J. W. Kendrick, Misses Madge Page, Hazel Bonneau, Mildred Lee, Frances and Mary June McDowell, Gladys Miller, Louise Mitchell, Minnie Pearce, Nan Marley, Gladys Jackson, and Elizabeth Rowe.

An interesting feature of the program was the great inventor professor, played by Judge W. M. Brunson, who appeared at the old maids' convention with his wonderful machine, which, by putting the much abused "single and unmarried" ladies into the hopper, the professor turned a crank and ground out just the kind of bewitching young beauties that were wished for. After considerable persuasion on the part of the professor, all of the old maids consented to try out the machine, which resulted in their being transformed into twelve manifestations of loveliness as represented by Misses Louise Tucker, Nell Brock, Madaline Strain, Louise Morgan, Lola Mae Hearn, Ruby Folsom, Marylene Ham, Vivian Clark, Hilda Stephens, Louise Johnson, Voncile Bryan and Lois Martin. The machine, in the latter case, was called upon to produce a beautiful brunette. Professor Brunson explained that beautiful brunettes were very difficult, so the result was a little pickaninhy in the person of little Lois Martin, who, upon looking in a mirror, said, "Oh, pshaw, they went and made me a chocolate drop."

Miss Annie Laurie Bullard's Rythm Band, composed of small school children, rendered several musical numbers in fine style, which added greatly to the enjoyment of the evening's program.

FARMER JONES AND HIS COW PEN

BY W. M. BRUNSON

The writer of this article wishes to state again that he is not Farmer Jones. Farmer Jones is an imaginary man who lives out several miles in the country on his farm. He lives out in most any direction, has a wife named Sallie, a son named Tom and a daughter named Sue. He owns and operates a three-horse farm, renting one to a negro, one to a white man and cultivating the third himself. Just lots of folks seem to think that I am Farmer Jones. Someone does everything told about, but it is one man one time and another the next time. In other words, Farmer Jones is just any good farmer out in the country.

******

Bed making time is almost here. Have you got plenty of good beds on hand? If you have not, then this is the time to get a full supply. Cotton is so cheap that you can afford to make a good mattress for every member of the family, and throw the old ones away. You owe it to your wife and children to get them a new supply and I hope every farmer in the county will do so. We spend a third of all our time on our beds and they should certainly be as good as we can make them. I wish some good man would buy a bed-making rig. Just an old-fashioned gin with a condenser that would turn the cotton out in rolls would do the work. A man could make a condenser that would turn the cotton out in a roll just as wide as a bed mattress. By having this rig your mattresses would always be of the same thickness. A rig like that would not cost much and would do a lot of work. If a fellow had one and would let it be known they would come from far and near to have beds made. You could get the seed for the making of the mattress.

******

Sallie has been talking to me about sending the kids to school. She wants to send them to town and I want to send them out here in the country. Sallie argues that they have better teachers, better buildings, better equipment and better heat in town, and I guess she is right about it, but I believe a boy can go to school out in the country for six months and do more real work than he can do in nine months in town. There are too many other things to attract his attention in town. The school in Elba is running and the children want to go, but I have not decided about it yet. I told Sallie that if she would wait until next Saturday I would do something about it. I like good old country schools like the ones where I got my little bit of schooling. Sallie says that I got mine in the country and that is why I do not have any more. If Sallie talks me into sending them to town she certainly has got to help me buy the clothes.

******

My little girl, Sue, is a bright child and I want her to have the best of everything. She wanted to go to Elba last Monday to the opening of the Elba schools but I did not carry her as we were all busy digging Spanish peanuts. Sue helped us all the morning and she certainly did shake a lot of peanuts. At dinner she asked me that same old question again, and here is what she said. She said: "Daddy, if I was the child of some of those men in town would I go to school today?" I just had to tell her the truth and I told her that it was her daddy that was to blame for her not going to school. Sue wants to take music, expression and art. If she was the child of some man of means she could have all these things, but being my child she can not have them. Now that is an awful feeling for a father to have. I guess there are a lot of other fathers who are not doing any better than I am. But folks, to tell the truth about it, I am ashamed of it and it hurts me worse each time Sue talks about it. I just believe I'll send her on to Elba and let her get as good an education as the others get. She is my child and I know she is as good as any other child and she must have the same advantages the others have. What would you do if it was your child?

******

Cotton is getting cheaper, corn and peanuts are getting cheaper and hogs are getting cheaper, but it takes just as much to feed my family as it did when things were higher. I mean it takes as much food. Folks who have cotton and peanuts must sell them, as they can not eat them, but we can eat our meat and lard and we are now planning to save enough to do us twelve months with about one third to spare. We are going to put up enough to have some to spare each month. Sallie says she can get her washing done with meat and I can get a lot of work done, too. We are also going to put some to use in getting our few groceries. We can take a nice ham and get all the coffee, thread, soda and things like that we need. If things do not change we will need to go through next year without money and we are getting ready for the job. Sallie says she can go twelve months without a penny. If it was not for my smoking tobacco I believe I could do the same thing. I can send a quarter and get tobacco, but I can not send produce for it, as the other fellow would not want to be bothered with such things. I guess I could take a whole ham and get me a month's supply of it, all right. I believe I will do that.

******

If this country is to be saved financially it must be done with cows, hogs and chickens. Have you heard that statement before? I am sure you have, and you will hear it again, as it is the truth and will have to be realized before we get back to normal times. The cow comes first, as you need her to raise your hogs and chickens. We must get the cows first, and it is high time we were getting them. I hope that every man in twenty miles of Elba will get some good calves this winter. We can get them cheap and now is the time to get them. You do not need to be working in your cotton, so build up your herd of milk cows. I want to place a good Jersey bull in every community that does not all ready have one. Won't you help out in your community???

******

We have not been able to get any calves during the past few weeks, but we are hoping that our luck will change. Mr. John Wallace is rearing for some heifer calves and we are going to get them just as soon as they show up on the scene. Who will be next to take a good supply? Every farm in this county needs more cows. We need them to raise our hogs, we need them to raise our chickens, we need them to raise our family, we need them to use in selling cream, we need them to grow yearlings for the market and we need them to build up our farm lands. In fact, we need them worse than we need anything else.

******

I know of a fine Jersey calf we can get right if any one wants it. We need a few registered cows and some one must own them. Who shall it be, Why not let it be you? You will get a lot of pleasure out of it and make money besides.

******

A good rule to make for 1932 will be "No cotton, no fertilizer, no debts, but lots of hard work and economy."

******

We must save ourselves from our present predicament and not depend on Long, Short or Tubby (Hoover) to save us.

******

We don't need legislation as badly as we need work and brains.

Many Respond To Call For Work At Cemetery

Mr. D. J. Brooks, chairman of the committee from the Lions Club who sponsored the work at Evergreen Cemetery last Thursday and Friday, asks The Clipper to thank each and every one for their liberal response to this much needed work. Many people went and worked, others sent some one in their places, and still others contributed cash to have the work done.

The cemetery was given a nice working and presents a much more sightly appearance, and this could not have been accomplished without the splendid cooperation of the people generally. The Lions Club wishes to thank all who helped in the work.

BIG TENT REVIVAL IS DRAWING GREAT CROWDS NIGHTLY

Evangelist J. A. Davis of Greenville, S. C., is conducting a revival meeting in a huge tent on the Rainer lot, in front of J. F. Garrett's residence, on Buford Street. The series of meetings, which are to continue for four weeks, started Sunday night with a great outpouring of people from Elba and surrounding territory. Quite a number were present from Dozier, Opp, Luverne, Kinston, Greenville and Enterprise.

The singing and music is in charge of Prof. T. E. Bush, a blind pianist and song leader extraordinary. He is a skilled musician and possesses a sweet tenor voice and also has the ability to bring out the best there is in his chorus choir as well as the singers in the congregation. His solos are well rendered and touch the heart-strings of his hearers. In spite of his blindness, he is full of pep and pairs up admirably with the genial evangelist.

Rev. Davis stated at the outset that although he is a Missionary Baptist, his meetings and sermons are absolutely interdenominational and that the members of all churches can rest assured that nothing will be said or done to offend anyone along that line. However, he is an able preacher with a message that strikes home to the hearts of his hearers. He is intensely earnest and puts his whole soul and physical strength into his efforts to convince his congregations of the great gospel truths that he is expounding.

The churches of Elba are cooperating in the revival and will give way their Sunday evening services during the meeting, with the single exception of next Sunday evening, when Rev. J. Fletcher McLeod, presiding elder of the Troy District, will preach at the Methodist Church.

Rev. Davis expressed his appreciation of their spirit of cooperation and also publicly thanked Mayor Cooper, Chief of Police Parker and the other city officials for their courtesy and kindness. The evangelist preached at the Baptist Church Sunday morning and will occupy the pulpit at the Methodist Church next Sunday at 11 o'clock.

The evangelist denounces all forms of sin in no uncertain tones and although he hits straight from the shoulder and hews right to the line, letting the chips fall where they may, he gives his hearers to understand that he is doing it in a spirit of love. It is sin that he hates and not the sinner.

All of the sermon subjects are live ones and appropriate to conditions as they exist today, but Rev. Davis has a number of special subjects for his sermons from time to time, some of which are as follows: On Thursday night he will preach on "The Scribes and Pharisees." On Sunday afternoon at 3:30 the subject will be "Cain's Wife." Much argument, most of it inconsequential, has been indulged in regarding the matter of where Cain got his wife, so Rev. Davis promises to explain this question fully Sunday afternoon. The subject for Sunday night at 7:30 will be "What I Would Do If I Were The Devil and Lived In Elba."

Rev. Davis and Prof. Bush closed a very successful meeting at Enterprise week before last. It is reported that during the four weeks there over 35,000 persons attended the meetings, or more than 1,500 at each service, on an average. They have recently held meetings at Opp, Dozier, Luverne, Greenville and other places in this section and without exception great good has been accomplished. If indications mean anything, the meetings which are now well under way in Elba will prove to be among the most successful ever held in this community.

A section of seats in the tent is being reserved for the colored people and quite a number of them are taking advantage of the courtesy. Some of Elba's best colored singers rendered two songs at the meeting Tuesday night as only Southern negroes can, which added much to the enjoyment and impressiveness of the service.

Mrs. Cora Sanders and daughter, Margaret, and Miss Laura Ramsey of Dothan were guests of Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Talbot Sunday.

Protect Yourself From Dreaded Pellagra Disease

Pellagra in Coffee County seems to be on the increase. An indication to this effect is the fact that during the past spring and summer the County Health Unit has distributed approximately 500 pounds of yeast to various people. This yeast is being furnished the county as part of the drought relief program carried on by the American Red Cross last spring. Besides these cases, there are many which have, no doubt, not come to the attention of Dr. Stanley and his office.

Pellagra is directly due to a lack of the pellagra-preventing factor owing to an insufficient amount of certain foods and is indirectly attributable to poverty. The disease occurs in a mild form with great frequency among children from 2 to 15 years of age. It occurs very frequently also among women from 20 to 40 years of age, especially among those with families. It is suspected that many such women tend to deprive themselves of certain foods in favor of other members of the family.

Dried bakers' or brewers' yeast is so rich in the pellagra-preventive factor that it is a cheap and specific cure and preventive for the disease. Along with the yeast, however, the diet must be improved. If every family used sufficient quantities of milk, vegetables, lean meat, fish and poultry products there would be no pellagra. But when families have few resources and live for the three or four months of late winter and early spring largely on corn meal, fat meat and molasses, it is almost inevitable that pellagra will appear. Such a ration is deficient in so many respects that almost any protective food improves it.

This fall, because of the present economic stress, there will be a lack of adequate food among many families. A determined effort must be made by every family to get for itself as many of the protective foods as possible. The home garden, the cow, the pig and the hen provide most of these at little cost. Surplus vegetables, now in gardens, must be saved for winter use. Fall gardens must be planted. Every family should make a supreme effort to have a cow and chickens.

The following food guide is a good one to follow: With fat meat, cornmeal and molasses, every person in the family should eat every day, milk, potatoes, cabbage, greens or other vegetables, should eat several times a week, lean meat, fish (canned, salted or fresh), eggs or cheese, tomatoes, dried beans or peas and some whole or ground wheat. Each child should have milk at every meal, a little tomato juice every day and eggs whenever they can be afforded.

THE ROAD TO BEAUTY

Artists and other beauty connoisseurs have declared that beauty in girls depends more on health and living habits than on any other factors. Home economics experts of University Farm, Minnesota, seem to agree with this conclusion and recently pointed out the qualifications for a good-looking girl.

They include a clear, smooth skin; bright, clear eyes; glossy hair; strong white teeth; firm, strong muscles; good posture, sitting or standing; normal weight; happy, good-natured disposition, with energy and pep for work and play. To aid in attaining these, the following recipe is offered:

Nine hours sleep with windows open every night. Play or work outdoors at least an hour every day. Three regular meals every day. Some suggestions for diet are quoted.

"Milk, cocoa or some other substitute should be used instead of tea or coffee; vegetable other than potato instead of a second helping of meat; as much dark bread as white; dark breakfast food as often as light; green vegetables or salad daily; fruit dessert instead of pie, cake or pudding; fruit, milk and cereal for breakfast instead of griddle cakes, sausage and coffee; fruit, bread and butter, or milk for lunches, instead of candy, pop, hot dogs or ice cream."

This seems like a sensible program and one within the reach of all, well worth the effort required, considering the prize at stake.

If baby has COLIC

A CRY in the night. Colic! No cause for alarm if Castoria is handy. This pure vegetable preparation brings quick comfort, and can never harm. It is the sensible thing when children are ailing. Whether it's the stomach, or the little bowels; colic or constipation; or diarrhea. When tiny tongues are coated, or the breath is bad. Whenever there's need of gentle regulation. Children love the taste of Castoria, and its mildness makes it safe for frequent use.

And a more liberal dose of Castoria is always better for growing children than strong medicine meant only for adult use.

DEATH OF MRS L. A. GOLDEN

Mrs. L. A. Golden, who was, before her marriage, Miss Luna Mae Summerlin, died Monday evening, September 7th, after an illness of only four days, although she had been in poor health for some time.

She leaves her husband, a stepdaugter, Annie Pearl, 11 years of age, and a baby daughter 1 week old, three sisters and many relatives and friends to mourn her death.

I wish to thank all the kind friends who were so kind and helpful to darling Luna Mae. She has gone and left me here to weep until I am called to follow her in the grave to sleep. Since she could no longer stay here to cheer me with her love, I hope to meet her in yon bright world above.

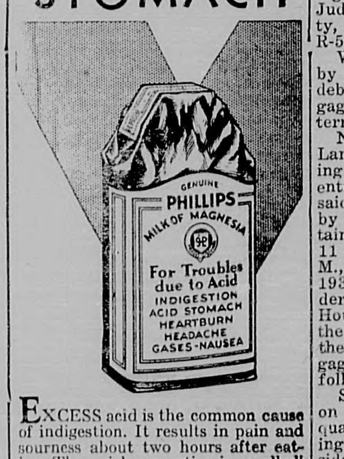
ACID STOMACH



EXCESS acid is the common cause of indigestion. It results in pain and sourness about two hours after eating. The quick corrective is an alkali which neutralizes acid. The best corrective is Phillips Milk of Magnesia. It has remained standard with physicians in the 50 years since its invention.

One spoonful of Phillips Milk of Magnesia neutralizes instantly many times its volume in acid. Harmless, and tasteless, and yet its action is quick. You will never rely on crude methods, once you learn how quickly this method acts.

Be sure to get the genuine. "Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of the Charles H. Phillips Chemical Company and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.

Provided, that in counties which are divided into two or more judicial divisions in each of which regular terms of the circuit court are held, the places where said terms of court are held, shall likewise be connected with each other.

Section 3. The proceeds of said bonds shall be used for constructing and/or surfacing of roads and constructing and/or repairing bridges, but not for maintenance or discharging of contract debts, liability or obligations existing prior to the adoption of this amendment.

From the selection of raw materials to the completion of the finished Chevrolet product, each process of building, assembling and checking the Chevrolet Six is marked by extreme care and precision. An exhaustive system of test and inspection makes certain that every part meets specified dimensions exactly. Many of these parts are held to limits of one ten-thousandth of an inch. No manufacturer in the industry uses more care or precision in building and testing than Chevrolet.

Just as every part of the car is soundly built, every feature is soundly designed.

In planning the motor, Chevrolet engineers were not content to offer the public anything less than tried and proved design. They knew that the only satisfactory way to get smooth, flexible power in a car is to use at least six cylinders. So they adopted the six-cylinder engine without compromise. And this is what you get in today's Chevrolet Six.

As a result of this sound designing and sound manufacturing, you can buy a Chevrolet and know you are getting a genuinely good automobile—soundly designed, soundly built, basically and technically right.

ROWENA RIDES THE RUMBLE

COPYRIGHT 1931 BY THE AUTHOR

by ETHEL HUESTON

TENTH INSTALMENT

It was indeed very plain what they thought about Peter. The friendly, admiring smiles with which they said good bye to Rowena froze into cold disapproval in their curt nods to Peter. He felt quite cut up over it all.

'Don't you care," said Rowena. "When they find out how things really are, they'll be so mad at me for fooling them that they'll rebound your way and think you are quite the nuts."

"Well," said Peter, "there's one thing sure. Everything in the world has happened to us now. From desert sands to mountain mud, from separate floors to bridal suite, we've run the gamut of the unexpected. Nothing will surprise me after this."

"Me, either," agreed Rowena. "I've used up the very last of my surprise sensations. No matter what happens, I'm expecting it."

But they were both wrong. Incredible as it seemed at the moment, they were due for many more surprising denouements and more sensational ones. Even climatic conditions conspired to add to their discomfiture.

The sky had been overcast for hours, and a heavy downpour of rain was followed by a steady, disheartening drizzle that showed no signs of diminution.

"I'm sorry, but you're all three under arrest."

They smiled at each other after a terrible day and in friendly comradely quiet pulled up to the hotel.

"Just ask for two singles," advised Rowena. "And if they give us adjoining ones we can't help it. We've got Spokane to fall back on."

They followed the boy with their bags into the hotel lobby. And the first thing they saw there was little brown Bobby Lowell sitting all hunched up in the biggest upholstered chair in sight.

"Bobby!" they cried. "You little duck, you! Where did you come from? Where are you going? What in the world are you doing here?"

Bobby dimpled, wept and giggled, kissing them both again and again with complete impartiality.

"You angels!" she said. "I've been so lonesome and I'm so glad to be back with you again. I feel like a poor little lonesome orphan that just found out it is a Smith!"

"Where's Carter? Is it your honeymoon?"

The small brown nose uptilted itself to a very haughty angle.

"Never mention his name to me again," she said thickly. "I never want to see him again as long as I live."

"Carter!" You never want to see Carter? Oh, you can't mean Carter, protested Rowena, who simply could not conceive of a Bobby with no Carter at the tip of her tongue. "It's just not possible!"

"It is possible—it's a fact. All is over between us for ever and ever. That's why I came to go on the rest of the trip with you."

"But see here," said Peter sternly, "you can't be just on and off with us like that. You left us in a terrible hole, running off the way you did——"

"I knew I had done wrong," said Bobby, "and so I said the best thing to do was to come straight back as fast as I could. That's why I didn't send back the money I borrowed, Peter. I needed it to come back on."

"It was like this. At first he was simply overjoyed to have me back and then in about an hour we got to talking about it and he got madder and madder and said he really didn't know whether he wanted to ruin his future by marrying a woman who had no more sense than that. So naturally I broke the engagement and gave him back his ring. I put my things in my bag and called up Rackruff to find out where I could catch you, and here I am. Oh, darlings, I've been so unhappy and it is so good to see you again."

They were none too well pleased about it. Bobby was an expensive addition to the party, seemed doubly expensive now that they could dispense with her presence.

It did not clear the atmosphere when they found waiting a telegram from the company with preemptory orders to send her back at once.

It said it was better publicity for the roadster to have the bridal couple continue their honeymoon alone.

Bobby said it was none of their business what she did, that she was responsible only to Carter. Was she going to let any ten cent company give her orders? Certainly not! Her arrangements with Rowena had been for the entire tour and for the entire tour she would continue.

So Rowena retired to the rumble seat, although Peter insinuated strongly that he was not vitally interested in the details of the falling out with Carter.

South to Portland proceeded the thoroughly chaperoned bridal party. It was in Portland that Bobby, who had been delighted into genuine hysterics over their gay account of the big doings in Spokane, demanded to see the wedding presents. Peter brought out the cocktail shaker and the cigarette lighter and Rowena showed her the watch and the candy box with the kissing Cupids.—It was the last time Rowena showed that watch for a good many weeks. She left it in extremely safe deposit—for a consideration—right there in Portland.

They gave Bobby a lurid account of the desperate strait in which she left them, and how Rowena conceived the bright idea of getting married as a sop to the requirements of society. Bobby said she always did think Rowena was just too clever for words.

"But aren't you just as married as if you really were married?" she asked interestedly.

"Not at all. We're just pretending that way. In fact, we're the same old maids and bachelors we always were."

"Isn't it too bad you are both so disagreeable?" said Bobby sweetly. "If you were just a little nicer you could fall in love with each other now—you know, they write best sellers about men falling in love with their wives—and it would be too romantic for words."

"Thank God, we're not nice, then," said Rowena. "With the example before us of you and Carter in love and all it leads to, Peter and I have entirely too much sense to be anything but enemies."

In San Francisco Peter found Rowena was starving herself to send money back East.

He had suspected that she was in debt. Evidently her creditors were pushing her hard. He went abruptly out to the little park where they were snapping the pictures.

"You must have enough," he said. "We're both dead tired. Let's lay off."

Rowena's smile was grateful. "I am tired," she confessed.

When they got in the roadster to return to the hotel he said in a voice so offhand and unconcerned that if she had not been so vitally interested in his words she must surely have suspected some hidden prompting.

"By the way, I got the expense money today. Of course, we're not supposed to have it till Monday, but I cashed the check so you may as well have yours."

"P-Peter!" gasped Rowena. And pressed the back of her hand quickly to her lips. Peter hoped she was not going to give anything away, confide any embarrassing details, but he needn't have worried. Rowena shuddered at her own worries.

"I'm hungry as the deuce," he said. "Let's see if we can find a good chop house and get a decent steak."

Rowena never said a word about soup. For himself Peter ordered the thickest, juiciest steak they could get their hands on, and plenty of "French frieds."

"That sounds good," said Rowena meekly. "Two."

She hoped Peter could't tell from her voice how the very thought of it made her mouth water.

"Well, there's one nice thing about traveling trio," said Rowena. "You can know just what to expect of every town. A bed and food, and no adventures. It seems a bit smug after the life of adventure Peter and I have lived."

Bobby said nothing at all. She was brooding painfully over the probable state of affairs in New York and her heart was wrung with doubts.

There was no letter for her at the Hotel in Los Angeles and she wilted visibly.

It was probably her absorption in her personal grief which kept her from sensing at the first moment, as the others did, that something was wrong.

Peter registered for all three, and the clerk instead of consulting the room chart as clerks are supposed to, turned without a word and went into the adjoining office.

"Peter," whispered Rowena, "I don't like that clerk. He looks like the worst sort of manager to me. I don't like this hotel either. I have developed a sixth sense about hotels. Let's go somewhere else."

"Oh, that's all imagination," said Peter, uncomfortably aware that it was not imagination and that Rowena was right about it.

But the clerk came back from the inner office at that moment, summoned a boy, and immediately they were on their way up. Rowena and Bobby shared a large double room with Peter in a single one adjoining, the bathroom between. He was thickly lathering his hands with soap to get rid of his accumulation of motor oil and California dust when there was a knock at the door and Rowena opened it to admit three men, one the manager of the hotel.

"Mr. Blande here?"

"His room is over there. He's in the bath now, I think."

"Call him in, will you?"

"Peter!" Rowena called at the closed door. "Can you come in a minute?"

Peter came at once, the towel still in his hands.

"Hello," he said cheerfully. "What's what?"

"That's what we want to know. Are you Peter Blande?"

"I most certainly am."

"Is one of these ladies your wife?"

"Yes. This lady—Rowena—is my wife."

"Did you register as Mrs. Blande?"

"No, by my maiden name. I am a writer and use my own name for professional reasons."

"You admit that you are his wife, however?"

"Absolutely," said Rowena. "I even brag about it."

"Why, they gave them the bridal suite in Spokane," put in Bobby helpfully.

"Yes, we heard about that. Are you Miss Lowell?"

"Yes. Roberta Lowell."

"Well, I'm sorry, but you're under arrest. All three of you. We have a complaint against you from New York. They say you're not married at all, traveling under false pretenses and want us to hold you. They say you're keeping this young lady by coercion and that you have a demoralizing influence over her."

Rowena and Peter glowered at Bobby.

"What," they demanded sternly, "does this mean?"

"I haven't the faintest idea," said Bobby. "I never saw anything demoralizing about you."

"That," said the officer kindly, "is because you are so innocent. But that lady out there'—and at his indication they turned and saw a uniformed woman on guard in the corridor just outside their door—"that lady is from the Juvenile Court. She will take charge of you."

LIBERTY NEWS ITEMS

We are getting along very nicely out here in the sticks. No sick ones that I know of, but all are very busy. The sun has been shining very hot and King Cotton has popped open like pop corn in a hot spider. It is about all popped and we are all right after it, from Daddy down to the little six-year-old boy and girl. It is wonderful how much some of these little fellows can do, but it is a shame to know how many of them will have to go without clothes this winter. I think most of them will have food if we are not robbed of it.

I am afraid to say what I think of our Government. They might hang me, but I do say that it is a poor government that will sit still and let her people be robbed. It is a shame, after the Lord has given us such a bounteous crop, to be robbed of it. Some say that everybody is hurt, but let me tell you, the farmer is the man that is hurt. The merchant is sitting right there keeping watch over his goods like a shepherd over his sheep, and he is going to keep them until he gets his money for them. So you see he is not hurt much.

Now let's turn to the better things of life. We cannot take too much interest in the school, for it is the hope of our nation, and it seems to be kind of shaky. Now that Governor Miller has killed some offices, I guess he thinks he has done lots, but when you pay men ten and twelve thousand dollars for looking after the highways of Alabama you need not expect much for school. You see, the more you pay a man the less account he is. We are in the middle of a bad fix, looking both ways for Sunday.

Rev. J. H. Fussell was at his post the first Sunday and was at his best. A good number were present and we had a real feast.

Susday, the 13th, was a lucky day out here, as it was Mr. J. J. Kendrick's 63rd birthday. His children and friends gathered at his home to enjoy the day with him, and such a dinner you don't often see. Every one seemed to enjoy it very much. There were about 115 present, as near as I could count. Mr. Kendrick's children were all present except Mrs. Alice McCord of Webb, Ala., and Curtis Kendrick of Samson. Mr. and Mrs. Sanders and Mrs. Sallie Wilkerson of Victoria were present, also Mr. and Mrs. Charlie McCord of Elba. One sister, Mrs. Alice Williams, was not present.

Mrs. Lanora Adams and family of Nicevlle, Fla., accompanied by Rev. J. J. Gables and other friends, were there. Rev. Gables preached at 11 o'clock. Mr. Dan Adams and family of Kinston and Mr. and Mrs. Adams of Ashford were also present.

Denver Chadler wrecked his car Saturday night at Double Crurches and it is reported that he was badly hurt. Two or three other boys who were with him were also hurt but not seriously. It is said that the lights went out and they ran off the highway.

STAYING IN LINE WITH PRICES

We, with others, enjoyed the peak prices at this time for our lumber.

Cotton today is bringing 5 to 6 cents, and at these prices buys very little merchandise in some lines—not so in the purchase of lumber. Our prices are cheaper in proportion than cotton.

Repair and build now while lumber can be had at its lowest prices. See our dealers or visit us and it will surprise you how cheap you can build.

We close Saturday at noon for the week, so do not expect deliveries or other services Saturday afternoon.

MRS. FRED FOLSOM DROWNED HERSELF IN THE PEA RIVER

This community was shocked and thrown into mourning last Thursday morning when the word was flashed about that Mrs. Fred Folsom had drowned herself during the night in Pea River.

It is said that Mrs. Folsom had intended to attend the tent meeting Wednesday night, but when her sister-in-law, Mrs. Ross Clark, called for her at her home before church time, Mrs. Folsom was gone, but Mrs. Clark supposed that she had gone on with some one else. However, when upon arriving at the tent, and Mrs. Folsom was nowhere to be seen, Mrs. Clark became uneasy and upon inquiry, no one had seen her sister-in-law.

After the service, Mrs. Clark and others went to Mrs. Folsom's home, where no trace of the missing woman was to be found. The alarm was quickly spread and a searching party combed the premises and the whole neighborhood, but without result. Finally some of the party decided to go to the river, where a pair of shoes and a towel were found, bearing mute testimony of the tragedy that had been enacted. Boats were quickly secured and the river was dragged all during the night, but it was not until about eight o'clock Thursday morning that the body came to the surface among some drift, about 100 yards below the bridge. The body had been in the water too long to think of trying any method of resuscitation. The body was carried to Bonneau-Jeter's undertaking parlor to be prepared for burial.

Mrs. Folsom had been in poor health for some time and was known to have been very despondent at times. In fact, it is said that she had expressed a desire to die on several occasions, so it is thought by her friends and loved ones that brooding over her troubles had temporarily caused her mind to become deranged, resulting in her self-destruction.

Her husband, Fred Folsom, who has a government position, and who was in Clayton at the time, was notified and he arrived in Elba eary Thursday morning and was present when the body of his wife was discovered.

Funeral services were conducted Friday morning at 10:30 at the Baptist Church, Rev. B. S. Franklin, pastor, assisted by Rev. J. A. Davis, Greenville, S. C., and Rev. W. E. Fuller, Opp, officiating. A vast throng of people gathered inside and out of the church to show the high regard in which the departed one was held in this community.

The impressive funeral service was opened with music by Miss Annie Laurie Bullard and Mr. Almon Strain and a selection by a quartet composed of Miss Hazel Bonneau, Mrs. Oscar Vaughn and Messrs. J. W. English and C. B. McDowell, who also sang two other songs later during the service. Rev. W. E. Fuller read a scripture lesson and Rev. J. A. Davis led in prayer. Rev. B. S. Franklin paid a beautiful tribute to the faithful and consecrated Christian life of "Miss Gertrude," as she was lovingly known by her intimate associates in the church. He said that ever since she confessed her faith in Christ one Sunday morning, a year ago last June, at a service held in the circuit court room, while repairs were being made to the church, hers has been one of the sweetest and most faithful examples of Christian experience he has ever witnessed. She was always ready and anxious to do everything she could for her Master. She was active in B. Y. P. U. work and was the leader in charge of the Royal Ambassadors. It was a touching scene when those fine boys, the Royal Ambassadors, filed into the church to pay their respect to the memory of their beloved teacher.

The beautiful Eastern Star burial ceremony was administered, of which order the deceased was an active and faithful member.

Gertrude Donaldson, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Donaldson, was born in Elba, Ala., June 20, 1897, and died in Elba September 16, 1931. She was married to Mr. Fred Folsom November 11, 1914. She attended the Elba schools and grew to womanhood here, where she was one of Elba's most highly respected and beloved young women.

She leaves her husband, three brothers: Messrs. M. E., Curtis and H. G. Donaldson; six sisters: Mesdames Henry King, E. M. Campbell, J. A. Johnson, Jr., Lee Page, John Wood and Lawrence Ward; and a large number of other relatives and friends to mourn her demise.

The pallbearers were nephews of the deceased: Messrs. Jake Morrow, Buck Campbell, Henry Ellis Donaldson, Fred Johnson, Ernest King, Glenn Donaldson and Levy Morrow.

Interment took place in Evergreen Cemetery. Bonneau-Jeter had charge of arrangements.

Presiding Elder Preached Able Sermon Sunday Nite

Rev. J. Fletcher McLeod, presiding elder of the Troy District, delivered one of his always-to-be-expected powerful sermons at the Methodist Church Sunday night to a good-sized congregation. He said among other things that the present world-wide depression is a result of the great World War and he warned his hearers that America is in dire danger of losing its leadership in the world unless there is a change, and that right soon, in the attitude of selfishness and disregard for God held by our men in authority.

The eloquent man of God stated that what is true in the United States is also true in the rest of the world and that the crisis that is confronting us is more serious and far-reaching even than 5- or 6-cent cotton. No country can prosper and leave God out of its program.

After the service the fourth quarterly conference of the year was held. Very encouraging reports were made by Pastor L. W. Tubb and chairmen of the various organizations of the church. Stewards, trustees and other officers of the church were elected for the ensuing year. A new Sunday School superintendent was also elected.

The presiding elder expressed himself as being well pleased and greatly encouraged with the reports and said that after making full investigation, he was convinced that Rev. Tubb should be returned to Elba for the coming year.

SURPRISE BIRTHDAY PARTY FOR MRS. PRESCOTT—

A few relatives and friends, including the children, gathered at the home of Mrs. Sallie Prescott Sunday, September 13th, to celebrate her 59th birthday. We enjoyed good singing in the morning and at 12 o'clock a bountiful dinner was spread, which was greatly enjoyed.

In the afternoon we just sat around and talked and enjoyed being together again so much.

Six of the children were present and two were absent. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Prescott, Chancellor; Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Prescott, Elba; Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Prescott, Elba; Mr. and Mrs. A. U. Thompson, Elba; Misses Ena and Gladys Prescott, Elba; Mrs. H. J. Prescott, Bullock; and all the grandchildren. Those absent were Mr. H. J. Prescott, Montgomery, and Mr .and Mrs. Button Prescott, State Line, Miss.

We hope to meet again a year from that day with all present.

—A Daughter.

Mrs. J. G. Clark gave a surprise party in honor of the birthday of her daughter, Nell Gardner, on Monday evening. Beautiful flowers lent their beauty and fragrance to the living room, where the guests enjoyed a number of games. After delicious refreshments were served a host of Nell Gardner's friends left, wishing her many happy returns of the day.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Peacock of New Brockton were guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Collier on Monday.

Mesdames Sam Rowe, Geo. Morrow, Grady Rhodes and Miss Lillian Rowe went to Troy shopping Tuesday.

Miss Nettye Ruth Walker entertained her Sunday School class at a delightful party on Friday evening at the home of Miss Mahlon Owen. The home was made more beautiful by an attractive arrangement of flowers. Games and contests were the diversions of the evening. Sandwiches and punch were served.

TENT REVIVAL IS DRAWING GREAT CROWDS OF PEOPLE

The great revival meeting which started Sunday night, September 20, and is being held in a large tent on the vacant lot is front of the John Garrett home on Buford Street, is growing in momentum and interest. Great crowds of people from Elba and surrounding country are attending each night and all indications point to one of the most successful and helpful spiritual uplifts ever experienced in this section. In fact, this great revival is sweeping this community like a mighty tidal wave and is the principal topic of discussion on every hand.

Rev. J. A. Davis of Greenville, S. C., who is doing the preaching, is a powerful minister of the gospel and the great gospel truths that he is expounding are being delivered in such a forceful and convincing manner that all opposition is being silenced and put to flight. Satan and his nefarious works are being denounced in such scathing tones that the wily tempter's adherents are made to hang their heads in shame.

Meetings are held every night with the single exception of Monday night, which is observed as a time of rest, after the evangelist's strenuous week. Unlike most meetings of this kind, the service Saturday night was one of the best and most largely attended of the week. Rev. Davis preached three wonderful sermons on Sunday. At 11 o'clock a.m. he occupied the pulpit at the Methodist Church, at which time he delivered a sermon on the beautiful Old Testament character of Ruth, and it was indeed a masterpiece. In the afternoon he delivered one of his special sermons on the widtly argued question of "Where Cain Got His Wife." The evangelist had promised to tell where Cain got his wife or quit preaching. After reading what little scripture there is on the subject, he made his promise good and became a member of the humorists' club by proclaiming that Cain got his wife from his father-in-law, but that the Bible does not happen to tell who his father-in-law was. He followed this bit of valuable information by preaching a powerful sermon on the distressing condition and suffering endured by Cain's wife and his family, likening the bootlegger, the drunkard and the wet politician and his ilk to Cain, and their wives to the much-abused and long-suffering spouse of the world's first murderer. It was a vivid portrayal of the deplorable conditions that exist today upon every hand and it goes without saying that the preacher's words of denunciation made a profound impression upon the vast throng of people who were present.

One of the greatest outpourings of people ever assembled in Elba thronged the tent Sunday night to hear the especially announced sermon on "What I Would Do If I Were The Devil And Lived In Elba." The huge tent which has a seating capacity of 2,000 was full to overflowing and hundreds of people were gathered about on the outside. It was the occasion of another mighty sermon which must have caused his Satanic Majesty considerable concern and uneasiness. The preacher explained how Satan gets in much of his most effective work in the guise of culture and respectability, making his wily efforts all the more dangerous.

Professor T. E. Bush, the blind singer and musician, continues to sing and play his way into the hearts of his listeners and the large chorus choir, under his leadership, fills the great tent with melodious music, making the old gospel songs ring out in a way that adds much to the isterest and spirit of each service. Messrs. J. F. Brunson with his saxophone and Almon Strain with his trombone have materially aided Professor Bush with the music.

A section of seats is reserved for the colored people and they have been delighting the congregations each night with their old negro melodies and spirituals.

Following are some of the special sermon subjects announced by Rev. Davis for the coming week:

Thursday night, special service for women and girls. Subject: "Wings of Silver and Feathers of Gold—Or Modern Womanhood." Two middle sections of tent will be reserved for women and girls on this night. Everybody invited.

Sunday afternoon at 3:30—Big mass meeting. Subject: "Let the Dead Bury the Dead."

Sunday night—"I Find No Fault In Jesus."

Elba-Enterprise Football Negotiations Called Off

After football fans in Elba had been led to believe that a game between the Elba and Enterprise teams was practically arranged negotiations were suddenly called off when Superintendent Wallace of Enterprise notified Professor Jas. C. Dixon that after consulting with Mr. John Pittman, chairman of the County Board of Education, it had been decided that the proposed game would not be advisable.

In years gone by the annual Elba-Enterprise game was the big event of the year for both schools and it was the money received from this game that went a long way toward paying the season's expenses. Athletic relations were broken off between the two schools after the game three years ago on account of some misunderstanding, but it is believed that such differences as may have existed at that time are things of the past and it is hoped by all lovers of good clean football that athletic relations may be resumed at the earliest possible date. Enterprise's decision to not play in Elba this year is a severe disappointment to the fans here as well as to many of the Enterprise football adherents.

FARMER JONES AND HIS COW PEN

BY W. M. BRUNSON

The writer of this department has been made very sad by the untimely death of a good friend. Mrs. Fred Folsom has gone to her reward, and in her going we lose one of the best citizens this county ever possessed. We have many good folks and we have a lot of folks who have a few good virtues, but it is very seldom that we have so many virtues in one person. The writer had the pleasure of serving in the Eastern Star during the time Mrs. Folsom was Worthy Matron and I had known her all her life before that time. I have no apologies to make when I tell you that she was one of the purest and most lovable characters I ever knew. Her devotion to her father and mother has never been surpassed, her love for her family and friends the purest and her devotion to her church was apparently perfect. She was a pure devoted Christian of the highest type and her loss is a loss to the town and county. I know that her spirit is now at peace, and my heart-felt sympathy goes out to her husband and relatives.

******

There have also been sad hearts in New Brockton. Mr. Bill Jones was buried on the same day Mrs. Folsom was buried. Mr. Jones has lived a most useful life and in my humble judgment has been one of the best citizens Coffee County has ever had. He was a devoted husband, a tender father and a friend to all his neighbors. He was always on the moral side of everything that came up in his community. For more than 25 years he has been an outstanding figure in the religious, social and political life of his community. In his passing we lose a good man and his place will be hard to fill. May God's bessings rest upon his family in their bereavement is my most earnest prayer.

******

Have you boys been down to Elba to hear that new preacher they've got down there under that big tent? Well, if you haven't you are missing the best thing that has been to Elba in a long time. That boy tells you about your sins and he makes it so plain that you can just see your sins as you never saw them before. I hope that every boy, girl, woman and man in Coffee County will hear this man just as many times as it is possible for you to hear him while he is in Elba. If you will go to hear him and listen to what he says, he will open your eyes and set your mind to thinking. Any man who has a car can afford to go 40 miles to hear Rev. Jim Davis preach one of his sermons and still be ahead of the game. I tell you, it is worth going to hear and you are not treating your family right if you do not give them an opportunity to hear him. He does not preach any doctrinal sermons in these meetings. All denominations are invited and he preaches to all alike. A citizen of this county told me that he went out to hear this man preach the first Monday night he was here and the preacher got on him and stayed on him throughout the entire sermon. He said he decided to go back the next night and hear what he had to say to the other boys, but to his surprise he took him up again and stayed on his case throughout the sermon. He went back the next night and the next, but the preacher did not turn him loose a single time. He now says he expects to go all the rest of the time to see if the preacher can just keep on talking about him. This man gave another illustration of the matter in this way: He said the preacher took him the first night and peeled him like an onion and he thought he was through with him, but on the next night he just peeled him all over again, and did the same thing each time through the week. In my humble opinion Jimmie Davis is the most forceful exponent of the gospel that has been in Elba since its foundation. Come out to hear this man and bring your family with you. You owe it to them and it will do you all good.

******

Sallie is paying for the gas and oil and I am furnishing the car, and we are all taking in the big tent meeting at Elba. We go every night and Sallie is as interested as she can be. Sallie thinks that boy, Jim Davis, has wings sprouting already. She wants to bring him out in the country to eat dinner with us some time while he is here. Times are hard but Sallie certainly could feed that old chap if he would come to our house. She says she wants to try him on fried chicken, peach pickles, fig preserves, fresh tomatoes, fresh corn, fresh beans, new sweet potatoes, ice cold butter milk, good country butter (as yellow as gold) and maybe a nice chicken pie. Could all you folks take that preacher to your house and give him a feed like that? Sallie believes in that man and she would try herself on a dinner if he should come to see us. The price of cotton wouldn't bother Sallie at all.

******

Since Sallie has been going to this tent meeting she won't let me eat dinner without thanking the Lord for it. Some times I get in a hurry and reach for something before I think, but Sallie calls me down and we have the blessing before we eat the first mouthful. Jim Davis has done us some good already, for Sallie never said a word about such things before she went to hear him preach. And I'll tell you something else, too, and that is, I really enjoy my meals more since we have the blessing at our house. Seems like it makes the food more acceptable. After I thank the Lord for it I can enjoy it more than I could before I began thanking Him. I know a lot of you boys never did try it, but I want you to just try it for a week and tell me if it doesn't make you feel better about what you eat. You go hear this man preach and you will all be doing things you have not done before.

******

Sallie is making her plans for fall cow feeding and I wish you could see what she is fixing. Looks like it will take most of what we have made to supply her needs, but being that she makes more clear money than I do, I guess it is all right to let her have things just like she wants them. Boy, believe me, she is fixing for another year. Sallie says she can go twelve months if we do not get a single dollar to run on and I have about decided she can do it. I am perfectly willing to let her have her way about it.

******

By the way, had you thought that it is time to plant your early patch of rye for your chickens? And too, there are the cows to care for, too. It is time to plant your rye patch for your cows and hogs. Always plant your rye in September if you can get seasons right for it.

******

The same rule is true for your winter peas. Plant them now and you will get the best results. Early planting makes the most fertilizer so why not plant early?

******

******

Every family in the county should set a hen every month from now on.

Elba Football Field Is Being Inclosed With Fence

The Elba athletic field is being inclosed with a high board fence. W. C. Clark has the contract for building the inclosure and will soon have it completed.

The flood washed the fence away which formerly inclosed the field, since which time the field has been open, which has made it very difficult to obtain the necessary financial remuneration out of football and baseball games. It is expected that the new fence will go a long way toward solving the financial deficiency problem that has confronted those in charge of athletics during the past two years.

From reports coming from the practice field, this year's squad gives promise of being molded into a winning football machine. Some good home games are being scheduled and it is hoped that Elba pigskin fans will support the team enthusiastically. Coach Morgan is leaving no stone unturned to give the local lovers of football a team that they will be proud of, so come on, fans, let's go!

HON. W. C. JONES PASSES AWAY AT HOME IN BROCKTON

Hon. W. C. Jones of New Brockton, who died at his home on September 17, 1931, was born in Coffee County, Beat 12, on May 11, 1866. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. (Dick) Jones, his mother's maiden name being Miss Jane Byrd, of Dale County, Ala. On October 28, 1889, he was happily married to Miss Sallie King, daughter of Hon. and Mrs. Phillip King, of Dale County, Ala. Mr. and Mrs. Jones reared a large family, there being ten children with their mother, Mrs. Jones, who survive his death, namely:

Mrs. J. S. Johnson, Cairo, Ga.; Mrs. E. C. Brooks, Enterprise, R. 2; Mrs. J. H. Wise, Elba, R. 3; Mrs. M. K. Heath, Decatur, Ala.; L. F. Jones, New Brockton; Mrs. Dewey Rowe, Enterprise; H. B. Jones, Mrs. Claude Sawyer, John I. Jones and Miss Mary Alice Jones, New Brockton.

Funeral services were conducted by Rev. W. M. Bush in Brockton Baptist Church at 4 p.m., September 18, a large crowd of friends and relatives attending. Active pallbearers were his nephews, as follows: Robert Hayes, Seth T. Jones, Paul Jones, Dudley Barnard, Pierson Heath, and Willie Hughes. Honorary pallbearers: J. B. Peacock, G. M. Heath, J. O. Snellgrove, J. E. Pittman, J. J. Watson and J. A. Carnley.

Besides his immediate family, Mr. Jones left two brothers: J. T. Jones, R. T. Jones; two sisters: Miss Rosa Jones, New Brockton, and Mrs. C. O. Hughes, Ozark, R. 4.

While yet young, Bro. Jones united with the Baptist Church at Ebenezer, near Haw Ridge, and at the time of his death was a consistent member of the Baptist Church of New Brockton. He was always an active member of his church and served on many important committees in the Baptist Association. He lived as he died, in the Christian faith, ever true to his Lord and loyal to his church. He exemplified in his life and conducts the tenets, principles and teachings of the Christian religion.

As a husband and companion, he demonstrated those noble qualities of heart and soul which contribute to happiness in the home circle, gentleness, tenderness and lovingkindness. As a father he was patient and kind, loving and true, always looking out for the welfare and best interest of his children.

Mr. Jones was one of Coffee County's best citizens. He ever manifested the keenest interest in County and State affairs and civic matters generally. He never failed to take the moral side in all political questions. He was a man of profound convictions and true to his country, standing like a stone wall against the forces of evil.

Mr. Jones had lived with his family for fifteen years in New Brockton, where he was engaged the greater part of this time in the mercantile and livestock business, and was the leading member of the firm of W. C. Jones & Sons, but on account of his failing health he retired from business about two years ago. For two years prior to his death he bore his sufferings with patience and hope. He loved life, but he was ready and prepared to go when called, and we have the consolation that he has passed to that better and happier life where there is no more pain and suffering.

A good man has passed to his reward in Heaven. Loved ones left behind and who mourn his going, know that he has gone to that rest which awaits every true follower of Jesus. The floral offerings and the host of friends attested the love and esteem of all who knew him. In grateful memory we shall continue to think of him and love him. —A Friend.
